Quick Summaries from Workshop: Transformation and Communication: New Strategies for Protecting and Promoting Historic Place

George H.O. Abungu – International Heritage Consultant (Nairobi, Kenya)

Heritage (both natural and cultural) in Africa has a multi-million year history. Both natural and cultural heritage are diverse, cultural heritage has been influenced by many different regions of the world including Europe, South America and Africa which create connections between different cultures. However, Africa faces many different challenges in the conservation of heritage resources including climate change, the impact of war, tourism development, and exploitation of resources. To deal with these challenges, there is a need to involve children, to communicate about heritage, and to create capacity within Africa.
